

SAANICH PENINSULA health & wellness

mindbody soul

Published May 26th, 2010

In partnership with

The health and wellness of all Peninsula residents is critical to the vibrancy and success of our community. In partnership with the Sidney Integrated Wellness Community Society, the Peninsula News Review will publish the Saanich Peninsula Health & Wellness program guide.

Published to coincide with the Sidney Health Fair, the Health and Wellness Pages will be distributed in 15,000 copies of the Peninsula News review with an additional 1,000 copies handed out at the show and other functions.

Designed in a magazine format, the Health & Wellness Pages will include a full membership directory from the SIWC, information on the Health Fair including speaker biographies, a floor map, plus much more.

This is a unique opportunity to showcase your health and wellness business products and services to the entire Peninsula in a focused and relevant format. Together with full circulation in the Peninsula News Review reaching almost every home in our community, you will receive additional exposure through distribution at the Sidney Health Fair where more than 1,500 people interested in discovering new health products and services are expected to attend.
